Hypothesis: As patterns of movement tend from random to attracted, infectious diseases will spread more rapidly.

!Diagram showing the occurrence of epidemics by events attracting mass movement.

Conclusion: There is strong evidence that attracted movement increases the rate of spread of infection.

Support of the Rural Industry Research and Development Corporation (RIRDC) is acknowledged.